Talentia Recruiting & Onboarding

For any business, recruiting the right people at the right time is critical. Whether candidates are plentiful or in short supply, it is important to be able to screen applicants quickly and manage the flow of information between reviewing managers, applicants and HR to achieve the best results.

Source Talents

Empower your Managers with the ability to instigate a vacancy request using the recruitment requisition form. Each vacant position request can be qualified directly at the start of the recruitment process (type of contract, duration, job description, etc.), avoiding tedious re-entry of information.

Never overlook the talent under your nose again; search your internal Talent Pool first. Thanks to the information already gathered from your employees "internal cv" you can search for specific skills or competencies, qualifications or even previous employment history to fill the gap.

Optimise Onboarding

People engagement starts on Day 1.

Ensuring that your new people receive support and guidance they need when joining the company is a critical aspect of any talent acquisition strategy.

Ensure your new recruit has the correct onboarding process tailored to their needs and requirements allowing them to integrate into the company with ease. Set up and monitor specific tasks and activities for them to complete at varying milestones.

Measure & Adapt

Manage and measure your recruitment cycles with real time analytics and KPI's. This will give you the information you need to implement a proactive approach to managing your recruitments and anticipating departures.
